OBJECTIVE

The goal of this one-day course is for participants to first gain an understanding of the historical, cultural, political, and economic foundations of 'Old China' (pre-1949) as well as 'New China' (post-1949).

Decisive for China's breathtaking development since the 'Reform and Opening-up Policy' termed 'Socialism with Chinese Characteristics' under Deng Xiaoping since 1979 are above all two factors: the unique 'Chineseness', whose DNA was shaped and consolidated in the pre-Qin period; and the 'System of Dual Bureaucracy', originated by Vladimir Lenin, who devised it as a subversion-proof structure ideal for the early years of the Soviet Union, and which China's Xi Jinping defined as the one-and-only 'China Dream' as the 2049 vision for China's national and global rejuvenation. However, with COVID-19 as an accelerant, the foundations of this 'China Dream' seem to be shaking more and more.

TIAN XIA – BEYOND THE CHINA DREAM China's Vision 2049 for a New World in Order

With growing Western pressure on human rights issues, an increasingly apparent corrupt banking apparatus, an extremely fragile foundation in the real estate sector, and above all the growing power struggle between the ruling and the deep factions within the CCP: will the 'China Dream' even collapse in on itself and unleash devastating shock waves?

Only knowledge and understanding of all this will allow us to look into China's (and our) future: in this course we will try to break down possible future scenarios for China's economy, security and foreign policy, domestic politics, as well as culture and society, and thus be able to derive possible 'Western' recommendations for action.

TOPICS TO BE DISCUSSED

- Zhōng-Guó – History, country, people, culture, philosophy, language, writing, political system
- China's Vision 2049 – China Dream, Social Credit System, OBOR, MIC2025, RCEP
- Rationalities and normative values - What is «Chinese»? «Western»? «Guān-Xì» and «Móu-Lüè»
- TIAN XIA since COVID-19 – geo-political, economic and social considerations
- Whatever the future may bring, China's development will be an increasing challenge, especially for the West: the honeymoon is over!

FROM OUR ANNUAL SUMMIT 2019 – why we decided to make this course

- Excellent presentation and content which provided me with a new and deeper understanding of China!
- This is one of the best presentations I have ever seen!
- Exceptional and excellent presentation, shedding new light on why we in the West fail to understand what motivates the Chinese to act as they do. Very exciting!
- Very interesting - a real wakeup call.
